

Arab Women's Entrepreneurship Program (AWEP)

Are you a woman about to start a business? Have you just started a business?

Apply now to qualify for a fully-funded training program designed to help you successfully launch or grow your business!

The Arab Women's Entrepreneurship Program (AWEP) is a Citi Foundation-funded initiative, implemented by AMIDEAST in Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon, and Morocco. In each country 20 women will compete to be selected to participate in the program and receive:

15 Days of training on business skills, conducted in Arabic, on topics such as:

- What makes a successful entrepreneur
- How to register a business in Lebanon
- How to fund a new business or business growth
- How to assess risk and feasibility
- Strategic planning
- Accounting and cash flow
- Customer service
- Sales skills

In addition:

- Site visits will be made to selected small businesses started and run by women
- Successful women entrepreneurs will act as guest speakers
- Participants will develop a business plan
- Participants will be connected to those who can help fund their business
- Mentors will support participating entrepreneurs as they establish their new businesses, or grow their existing businesses
- Individual progress will be monitored throughout the program
- The local group will gather regularly to discuss each other's progress and share advice, experiences, and success stories
- Participants gain access to AMIDEAST's new online Entrepreneurship Forum that enables you to network and support each other during this period, both within and across countries
